Martin Luther King Day Panel Discussion

How BLACK LIVES MATTER – in the United States and in Germany: Systemic Racism, Modes of Solidarity, and Historical Differences

Honoring Martin Luther King Day 2021, the panel focuses on the Black Lives Matter movement and its protests against systemic racism and police violence in the United States, and their echo in Germany. While of utmost relevance for the fight against racism, such solidarity raises the question how cultural conditions in the US and Germany compare. Do the terms, attitudes, strategies, and goals we adopt fit our own cultural conflicts? How have issues of race, racism, and xenophobia affected lives, institutions, and politics in Germany? Does the attention to racism circumnavigate the significance of economic inequality and classism, not to speak of systemic sexism? And what impact have black and Afro-German activism had on cultural communication and social interaction around here? These are some of the questions our debate will address.
